Biblical Archeology

Tuesday, Sept. 21, 1999, 7:30 p.m. Totino Fine Arts Center, Rm. 115, Northwestern College, Roseville

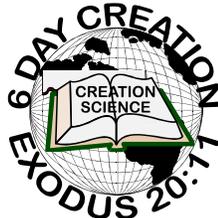

Rev. Kenneth W. Long has devoted most of his adult life to gospel ministry, a span of over thirty years in pastorates and evangelistic meetings. In recent years he has devoted his life to digging (literally) into history.

Jeremiah 32:20(NIV) states, You performed miraculous signs and wonders in Egypt and have continued them to this day, both in Israel and among all mankind, and have gained the renown that is still yours. Rev. Long believes that this preordained form of witness cries out from the earth today as never before, to combat evolutionary and humanistic skepticism, by confirming the Bible as the inerrant word of God, deserving of our trust in all matters of which it speaks. It is in this context of corroborating signs and wonders that brother Long sees his call to biblical archaeology and exploration.

Rev. Long formed a company called "Rock of Ages Documentaries" in 1994. Seventeen months of exploration and research have produced video footage that is now in the editing stage. More camera work is needed to augment and finish what eventually will be at least five documentaries, all, of course, with a biblical perspective. They have a web site called rockofages.org with the basic undergirding philosophy to provide a view of human history from a biblical and theological perspective, rather than from a purely anthropological one. Beginning with the scriptural assumption of a divine purpose for mankind, then showing a sovereign creator, working all things after the council of his own will (Ephesians 1:11), superintending human past and charting human destiny. You will find here documentation on the recent and revolutionary (not evolutionary) discoveries made in many scientific disciplines to substantiate that the Bible is the Word of God, inerrant in all matters of which it speaks. This should be an excellent program for everyone of all ages.

New Cartoonist

Check out the new cartoon on the back of this issue. Daniel Nuckols, age 13, has submitted some wonderful, thought provoking drawings for your enjoyment. Isn't it great to see young people using their talents in constructive ways that glorify God? Thanks Daniel!

October 19 - Dr. Ross Olson MD - Primordial Soup -- Why Is The Recipe Still Secret? Can a mixture of organic compounds in a warm shallow pond, or a hot deep-sea vent or a cold inter-galactic cloud randomly arrange themselves into what it takes to become a simple living cell? Mathematics and physics say that even a small protein molecule could not emerge in 30 billion years. So, don't worry, when you open a particularly old can of chicken noodle, you need not worry about being attacked by a new life form.

Adventure Safaris

Schools are starting for another year and we are busy arranging our schedules to meet the needs of homeschool co-ops and groups. There are openings available yet so please contact us right away to enroll your students or get information. We have an exciting year of scientific study planned, that will enhance the knowledge and improve the understanding of each student.

Contact us for information on local safaris planned for this fall including fossil digs and evening astronomy activities. We also provide special presentations for churches and other groups.

Just a reminder regarding the Science Fair in February at Har Mar Mall. You may want to start planning your project now to assure completion on time. This is a wonderful opportunity to interact with other homeschool families and be a witness in the community that the Bible and science are compatible.
