Continuous Environmental Tracking: An Engineered Method to Fill the Earth

June 20, 7:30 PM, Totino Fine Arts Room F2128, Univ. of Northwestern, 3003 N Snelling

Are creatures active trackers of environmental change by innate systems enabling them to continuously fill new niches, or do geologic and climatic pressures predominantly drive adaptation in relatively passive organisms? There is increasing evidence that God engineered creatures with systems to detect changes in myriads of external conditions and then make suitable self-adjustments which actively sustain a close and continuous tracking of environments.

Randy Guliuzza MD is also an engineer, he's an excellent speaker with a lot to say. His talks are always interesting and well worth your time.

All Meetings are free and open to the public, an offering will be accepted.

Have you considered...

...the thick beds of limestone found worldwide? Today we see limestone forming slowly in calm ocean waters by the mechanical breakdown of shells which form lime muds and limestone. Because limestone forms so slowly, evolutionists believe the earth is old. However, does today's limestone look like those formed in the past? NO! Modern lime stones have larger crystals and a different composition than "ancient" lime stones. There is an exception though, lime stones formed in hurricanes like those in the Florida-Bahamas area pickup large quantities of lime mud and redeposit them resulting in these lime stones looking like "ancient" lime stones. Also, "ancient" lime stones contain many well preserved fossils which attest to rapid formation, otherwise the plants and animals would have decayed or been eaten by scavengers. To find fossils in lime stones means the lime stones had to form quickly. "Ancient" lime stones are different from modern limestone in crystal size, composition and fossils. All this speaks of a catastrophic event in the past, such as the Flood of Noah's day. Lung, Stacy (2016) Wisconsin' Flood Journey. Self-published.

Looking for Vacation options?

Julie Von Vett has presented two talks on Creation Vacations in the Black Hills/Badlands and Utah. Both offer some wonderful sights showing God's handiwork if you look with a Bible-based viewpoint. These talks and others are available on DVD at TCCSA meetings for $5 each or 3 for $10. Feel free to share them with friends and family and invite them to come with you to meetings.

Did you Notice?

This year we plan to start having programs in August too. The problem is, there are so many great speakers we need another month to fit them in. Actually that isn't a problem, we want to keep you informed of information you can use. We are bombarded daily with fake science from TV, schools, magazines and even newspapers. We need information that informs us of what is actually happening in our world from a biblical viewpoint. Let your family and friends know about TCCSA.

Coming Up (Lord Willing) . . .

July 18—Sal Giardina, Illusion of Evolutionary Deep Time
August 15—Neil Smith, Dragons: Myth or History?
Sept. 19—Russ McGlenn, The Drake Equation...
Oct. 17—Richard Broadberry, God's Promise to the Chinese

TCCSA's STATEMENT OF BELIEF

We believe in God: The Father, Son and Holy Spirit. We believe that the Bible is the inspired Word of God, and that all of its assertions are historically and scientifically true in the original autographs; this means that the account of origins in Genesis is a factual presentation of actual historical truths. We believe that the origin of matter and all basic types of living things, including man, came about through direct creative acts of God during the six-day creation week described in Genesis. Whatever biological changes have occurred since the creation week have accomplished only changes within the created kinds. We believe that the great flood described in Genesis, commonly referred to as the Noachian Flood, was an historic event, world-wide in extent and effect. We accept the account of the special creation of Adam and Eve as the first man and woman. Their subsequent fall into sin, by disobedience of God's direct command, is the basis for our belief in the necessity of a Savior for all mankind. Therefore, we believe that Jesus Christ is our Lord and only Savior and that personal faith in Him is necessary for salvation.
